INFOTAINMENT ELEVATOR ALTENA CASTLE

Its position on a spur of the Wulfsegge Mountain made Altena Castle impregnable. Later, its accessibility was still a difficulty for tourists. But these problems have been over since 2014. With the "infotainment elevator", the castle complex can now be reached conveniently and barrier-free in only 30 seconds from the town centre. You go 90 metres into the mountain and travel 80 metres upwards. A virtual experience awaits visitors in the tunnel. The journey to a magical era begins with a welcoming speech by the past owner and Burghard his bat. Six multimedia stations that recount regional sagas; magic mirrors that transform us into knights and monks, and flowing water you can paddle through without getting your feet wet impress visitors of all ages. Following legendary encounters with the dwarf king Alberich and Wieland the smith, these new friends accompany the guests to the castle.

EVENTS AT THE CASTLE

"Altena – a Town Experiences the Middle Ages": From Friday until the first Sunday in August, the Castle and the town centre of Altena are in an exceptional state thanks to South Westphalia's biggest medieval festival. Spectacular jousting tournaments are held along the banks of the River Lenne. Music, juggling, acrobatics, craftsmanship and culinary delights round off the atmosphere – and not only at this event. They also create a medieval ambience at the "Winter Spektakulum Burg Altena". The castle lit by torches, seasonal fragrances, hands-on activities at the museum, fairy tales, stories and guided tours by torchlight; all contribute to this captivating experience on the first weekend in Advent. The puppet theatre days are held in the autumn and, on many weekends, events in the "Time Warp Burg Altena" series take place as well as workshops for old handcraft techniques. Find further information on the programmes at www.maerkischer-kreis.de and www.burg-altena.de.

ALTENA CASTLE

The 900-year-old castle high above Altena is one of the loveliest mountain castles in Germany. Since 2014, visitors are transported to the upper castle bailey conveniently and barrier-free by an "infotainment elevator". The castle is a national heritage monument and domicile of the world's first youth hostel and of the Museum of the District of Mark with its outstanding collections from the Middle and Early Modern Ages. The baileys are venues for events such as "Altena – a Town Experiences the Middle Ages" and "Winter Spektakulum Burg Altena". The Prussian King Friedrich Wilhelm IV had the castle hill grounds enhanced with a park in the style of an English landscape garden. A restaurant and a DJH youth hostel round off the facilities on offer.

Altena Castle

Situated in a picturesque spot overlooking the old wire-drawing town of Altena is one of the loveliest mountain castles in Germany. Originally the historical centre of the County of Mark, Burg Altena is still the historical and cultural centre of the Mark district of the Sauerland. In the 12th century, the Counts of Altena-Mark founded their family castle as protection for the iron trade. After an eventful history it fell to the house of Brandenburg in 1609. From then on, it was regarded as the ancestral seat of the maternal line of the Prussian royal family. Throughout Germany, people shared in the excitement when the reconstruction of the Castle was the subject of hot discussion in 1907. Emperor Wilhelm II settled the dispute in favour of the "castle builders". Since 1914/1915, this national heritage monument is home to the world's first permanent youth hostel, a restaurant and museums that attract visitors from near and far.

Museum of the County of Mark

The oldest regional history collection in Westphalia depicts the gripping story of the Mark district of the Sauerland, focusing on the Middle and Early Modern Ages. The stage-like settings of the objects on display allow visitors to share in the conflicts, hunts and dining pleasures of the knights and noblemen as well as in the lives of peasants and craftsmen. Experience for yourself how heavy a coat of mail was by putting one on. Chain mail, ring armour and helmets are ready for you to try out. Further highlights include a room on the subject of idiomatic expressions, the castle chapel, the dungeons with a "hunger chair" and a presentation of medieval iron smelting. The original living conditions at the castle can be perceived especially well in the Great Tower which presents a fantastic view over the Lenne valley.

World Youth Hostel Museum

Altena Castle gained international fame as a result of being the site of the first permanent youth hostel in the world. It was inaugurated in 1914 at the instigation of Richard Schirrmann, a teacher at a primary school in Altena. His youth hostel concept started to take shape in 1909 and spread from Altena to all corners of the world. The first hostel at the Castle is still maintained in its original state. Anyone who wants to find out what the accommodation for hikers was like at the time can test two straw mattresses in the girls' dormitory. In the "Interactive Youth Hostels" room, a media table provides information about the history of the youth hostel movement. There is a DJH youth hostel in the outer part of the castle in the lower bailey, where guests can still stay overnight.

HISTORICAL CASTLE GROUNDS

In 1843, the Prussian King Friedrich Wilhelm IV commissioned his royal garden administrator, Maximilian Friedrich Weyhe, to plan a public park for the castle hill in Altena. Weyhe wanted to embellish the bare rocks with elegantly laid out promenades in the style of English landscape gardens, complete with vantage points, tree-lined avenues and groves of trees. Large areas on the slope to the Netze Valley were levelled, lawns were sown and trees and bushes planted. On the hillside facing the River Lenne, craggy rock formations combined with trees and pathways offered many astounding views across the countryside. The park was finished in 1854, but very soon became overgrown. It was partially restored in 2015 and can now be accessed again.
